ANNOUNCEMENT

INTERNATIONAL FOOD LAW DISTANCE EDUCATION CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

Winner of the ADEC Excellence Award in College and University Distance Education. The Institute for Food Laws & Regulations now offers nine courses through the Lifelong Education Program at Michigan State University.

Applications are now being accepted for enrollment in fall semester courses, which start August 31, 2009 (spring semester courses, begin January 11, 2010) and continue for 12-15 weeks. Courses offered are:

- * International Food Laws and Regulations (overview course) (spring/fall)
- * United States Food Regulation (spring/fall)
- * European Union Food Regulation (spring/fall)
- * Latin American Food Regulation (fall semester)
- * Canadian Food Regulation (spring semester)
- * Asian Food Regulation (spring/fall)
- * Codex Alimentarius (The Food Code) (spring semester)
- * IPPC (International Plant Protection Convention) (fall semester)
- * OIE (World Organization for Animal Health) (fall semester)

The three-credit courses are taught completely over the Internet by an international network of experts in food regulation. No books are required. All course material and recommended Internet links are supplied online. Transcript transmission is not required through the MSU Lifelong Education Program. Successful completion of four courses required for the International Food Law Distance Education Certificate, however, students are welcome to take any number of courses desired. Taking only one course per semester is recommended. Tuition for fall semester 2009 courses will be announced by July 2009 and may be paid in August/September.

Contact Course Manager Mary Anne Verleger for easy enrollment through the Lifelong Education Program at IFLR@msu.edu or call (517) 355-8295. Further details available at: <http://www.iflr.msu.edu>
